AN INFANT TERRIBLE.

She Made a Man Blush and the Girls Giggled.

"Lateral children, or, more properly, children who take your chiding literally, are holy terrors," relates a young man noted for his politeness to ladies. "I was in a herd the other day which was much crowded, though no one was standing at the time. Presently a lady and gentleman got in, and I gave my seat to the lady, leaving the old gentleman standing. Immediately a young lady sitting in one end of the herd called to her little sister, a child of 6 perhaps, who was sitting near the door at the other end, to come to her and give her seat to the elderly gentleman. The child came willingly enough, and while the sister was reading her a lesson in manners a passenger got out, and I took a seat. "Never let me see you remain seated again when people older than you are standing," closed the lecture, and the child was crowded, half sitting, half standing, between the old sister and the lady next to her. Two minutes later a pretty girl got in, and of course, as the only gentleman in the herd, I gave her my seat. No sooner had I done so than that small terror was on her feet.

"Oh, mister," she said in sweet, shrill accents, "you take my seat! You're older than me!" And everybody laughed, of course, for the only place on earth that I could have "taken a seat" was on the sister's lap, from which the child had slid. I didn't take the seat, but I did take to the street and walked five blocks in a drizzling rain to get away from the giggle of those girls.—Washington Star.

Hadrian's Wall.
 Hadrian, in A. D. 120, built a stone wall from Bowness, near Carlisle, on Solway firth, to the river Tyne, near Newcastle. It was 80 miles long and garrisoned by 10,000 troops. It was from 12 to 20 feet high at various points, 8 feet thick at the top and was provided with a gallery in the rear, which enabled its defenders to take their stand with only head and shoulders visible to the enemy. At every quarter of a mile there was a castle with a garrison of troops. Beacon lights and signals were used, and on an attack, whether by day or by night, the news was at once flashed up and down the wall from sea to sea.

After the Elopement.
 Artie—Darling, you have no idea how anxious I was while you were coming down the rope ladder. I was so afraid you had not fastened it securely above. Susie—You needn't have been alarmed dear. Pava tied the knot for me.

Didn't Locate It.
 Dr. H. F. Fisk, principal of the academy of the Northwestern university, is an exact man, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. He has made it a rule that for all absences from recitations his students shall write out reasons in full why they were away and what recitations were missed. One day Dr. Fisk received a note as follows:

"On account of the carache, headache, stomach ache and cramps I was unable to attend algebra at 9 a. m., grammar at 10 a. m. and English at 8 p. m."

Dr. Fisk excused the student, but at the same time took occasion to rebuke him for not stating in his letter where he had cramps.

Professional Advice.
 "Doctor, I'm so nervous that I toss all night. What's the best remedy?"

"Just take a nap when you feel that way."—Detroit Free Press.

THE UMBRELLA.

It Has Been Known and Used For Thousands of Years.

Possibly many of you suppose that the umbrella is a modern invention, but it is not. Both as an emblem of rank and as a protection from sun and rain it is of very ancient origin. Though the materials used in the manufacture have been constantly changing, the general construction of the frame has been changed but little in thousands of years. Egyptian and Ninevite sculptures of the earliest dates have many representations of the umbrella, but it is invariably in connection with royalty. It was always held over the head of a monarch when he rode in his chariot and at his great open air feasts. In some of the Hindoo sculptures Vishnu is represented carrying an umbrella when going on a visit to the infernal regions.

We find frequent references to the umbrella in the Greek poets, for its use was quite fashionable among women of high rank in Greece. In the middle ages it was an emblem of rank in the church. Umbrellas were carried over cardinals and bishops in solemn processions, and all of the large cathedrals owned one or more umbrellas that were kept for use on such occasions.

The Chinese adopted the umbrella at a very early period in their history, and for many centuries were the only people that did not confine its use to the king and princes of the blood. However, they permitted only men of wealth and high position to carry them. The common people protected themselves from the elements by making their hats broad and umbrella shaped.

From the time that they established their empire the Japanese have made much use of the umbrella. It is also used throughout India, but it is a mark of rank in Burma and Siam. One of the titles of the king of Burma is Lord of the Twenty-four Umbrellas. He uses white silk umbrellas, and no other person is permitted to use a white one. The princes of the blood each have, as a mark of distinction, two gilt umbrellas, with handles 10 or 15 feet in length. The other officers of the state have but one.

From early drawings it seems probable that the umbrella was introduced into Europe in the fourteenth century, but it did not come into general use until about 1700.—Philadelphia Press.

A New Point in Insurance.

The ingenuity of some insurance companies in devising ways and means for evading responsibility is equaled by nothing on earth. A claim was recently made against an accident insurance company for indemnity by a physician who had met with an injury in a very peculiar fashion. He had been ill as the result of an accident received some time previous, but was partly recovered. While driving he was seized with a spasm, and great exhaustion overcame him. He stopped his horse and proceeded to administer a hypodermic injection of some powerful stimulant to which he resorted in such emergencies. Just as he was about to insert the needle his horse started. The needle was driven deep into the flesh, inflicting a severe and painful injury. He sued for indemnity, he being disabled for 22 weeks. The judge dismissed the complaint on the ground that the injury was not caused through external violent and accidental means in the intent and purpose of the policy. This decision will strike the average thinking individual as somewhat peculiar. If a mishap due to the sudden starting of a horse is not an accident, it might be interesting to know how the word could be defined.

Women and Insurance.

Only about eight or nine of the life insurance companies of the country insure women at the same rates as men. A considerably larger number insure women, but charge them an additional $5 per $1,000, and still more even do not insure women at all. It is the opinion of those qualified to speak that the companies charging the excess rate are not justified in doing so and that the practice will not long be continued. The mortality rate experienced among its women insurers by one well known company has been about 80 per cent of what was expected, and it has insured several women for the full amount it will issue on any one life—that is, $50,000. The heretofore unfavorable attitude of insurance companies toward women has been due undoubtedly to the fact that few if any women had an insurable interest, but that day has passed. As the avenues of occupations have widened thousands of women today are the sole support of children or parents, and those thus dependent on them need the protection of insurance as much as if the family breadwinner were a man.

A Humming Bird's Umbrella.

In front of a window where I worked last summer was a butternut tree. A humming bird built her nest on a limb that grew near the window, and we had an opportunity to watch her closely. In fact, we could look right into the nest. One day when there was a heavy shower coming up, we thought we would see if she covered her young during the rain. Well, when the first drops fell, she came and took to her bill one of two or three large leaves growing close by and laid this leaf over the nest so as completely to cover it; then she flew away. On examining the leaf we found a hole in it, and in the side of the nest was a small stick that the leaf was fastened to or hooked upon. After the storm was over the old bird came back and unhooked the leaf, and the nest was perfectly dry.—American Sportsman.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

The Board of County Commissioners met yesterday as a board to transact the business of the Reno town government, as provided by law.

The first business was a petition presented by the teachers of our public schools and other citizens asking that a Board of Health be prescribed by law and a certain town ordinance passed several years ago, and, it appearing that there was danger of a spreading of a certain infectious disease now known to exist in Reno in a mild form, the board appointed the following gentlemen as such Board of Health, to serve for two years: Drs. H. H. Hogan and P. T. Phillips and Professor W. McN. Miller.

The usual monthly claims against the town were considered and audited.

In answer to various and sundry complaints made by our citizens concerning the dark electric lights on dark nights the board caused the manager of the Electric Light Company to be present, and a somewhat interesting conference was had between the board and the light company. While no positive action was taken by the board, it is hoped the electric light service will be improved.

The board adjourned until the first Tuesday in April.

THE EIGHTEENTH SESSION—FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mrs. Corbett Arrives and Other Matters of Interest at Carson.

CARSON, March 2, 1897.

As foretold in last report, Burchfield's bill to repeal the purity of election met with a Waterloo at last evening's session, at which it was made a special order. There was a lively debate and before the roll was called there was some exhibition of feeling and after adjournment considerable soreness was felt by advocates of the repeal. The bill was lost by a vote of 15 to 12. Stoddard's bill amending the law will probably pass the Senate and become a law.

The arrival of Mrs. Corbett caused a little flurry at the depot this morning and was almost as much of a curiosity as her husband or Fitzsimmons.

The arena is rapidly approaching completion and preparations are going on for the great event on March 17th. The V. & T. is laying side-tracks to accommodate the trains that are expected to lay here, and the Bureau of Information established by Dan Stuart has a force of clerks looking after matters pertaining to the accommodation of the crowd. The principals remain close to their quarters and go through their regular routine of training.

The Western Union office about the liveliest place in town. Some fourteen operators are at work and it presents the appearance of a city office. Messenger boys with regulation caps and badges are seen skurrying about and the Carson office is prepared to handle all business brought to it.

Stars have been procured and a force of men employed as policemen and they are getting into the style and ways of the metropolitan police.

The Arlington is still headquarters and Bob Grimmon, the genial proprietor, with his able assistant, Hy, are ready at all times to furnish information or accommodations to all comers. Bob says there is always room for one more at the Arlington and they can't come too thick or fast to worry him. He is arranging to handle the big crowd that he expects on the 17th.

Up to the present time no motion to reconsider has been given on the Reno incorporation act. It is generally understood that if the motion is made it will not cut much of a figure.

The general appropriation bill is causing considerable speculation. The amount of $304,680 provided in the bill together with the relief and deficiency bills that have already been passed stultifies the members considerably and the indications are that each item of the bill will be thoroughly canvassed.

D. A. Bender has left for Stockton where he takes charge of a short road. He will be greatly missed in Carson as he was an energetic and active man in all matters in the interest of Carson.

Met at 11 A. M., President McCone in the chair.

Roll call. All present.

Prayer by the chaplain.

Journal read and approved.

Senate bill 77, Ernst—Nye county Court House bonds. Judiciary.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Diamonddale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store. Regular size, 50 cts. and $1.

Diphtheria Cure.

The testimony of a prominent physician:

FOUNTAIN CITY, Ind., June 17, 1895.

This certifies that I have been using V. O. in my practice. I have never found any medical preparation in 46 years of practice that is calculated to do so much good in so wide a range of diseases and leave no after bad effects.

In Diphtheria it has proved a perfect specific in my hands, and I had rather depend on it alone in that dreadful disease than the whole popular Materia Medica with that left out.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. Fifty cents and $1 per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Viava is King.

Visitors to Reno, are cordially invited to call and investigate the merits of Viava. I have sold since June, 1892, $13,000 worth, this speaks its value without further words.

At the Theater.

The Reno Dramatic Club gave a second rendition of "The Ensign" at the Opera House last evening.

As a rule when a theatrical troupe plays two nights in succession at a place they are very apt to cut the play to some extent and often times slight the work. This was not in any sense true of the performance given last evening. Everything went off smoothly. The waits between the acts were very much shorter than in the previous performance. No stage fright was perceptible and each and every one acted like veterans of the profession. All present enjoyed the play immensely and hope the club may be induced to give us another play in the near future. Their unqualified success in this one certainly would justify them in doing so.
